

Presents Two Workshops With Nat Wilson

From One to Infinity:
Number Systems in ASL
Friday, July 24, 2009; 5:45 – 9:00 p.m.

The world seems to be made up of never-ending numbers. How many number systems can you identify? Age ~ Height ~ Weight ~ Money ~ Ordinals ~ Cardinals ~ Scores ~ Quantities ~ Proportions ~ Speed ~ Math ~ Fractions ~ Decimals ~ Addresses ~ Phone numbers ~ IP numbers ~ Social Security numbers ~ Statistics. This workshop will provide a review of number systems in ASL.

The Size and Shape of Things to Come*:
ASL Classifiers
Saturday, July 25, 2009; 8:45 a.m. – 4:30 p.m.

This workshop will provide an overview of classifiers including movement roots and handshapes, and how classifiers function within American Sign Language. Discussion will focus on the meaning of classifiers used in different source texts. Participants will have opportunity to practice using classifiers in conversation and in interpreting activities.

*Apologies to H.G. Wells.

LANGUAGE POLICY:

Workshops presented in ASL. Interpreters will not be provided.

NAT WILSON is a part-time ASL faculty and instruction /classroom support technician at Seattle Community College in the Deaf Studies and Interpreter Training programs, and teaches ASL Theatre. He was a featured actor for the National Theatre of the Deaf (NTD) and The Little Theatre of the Deaf, touring nationally and internationally for twelve years. He also served as Director of the NTD's Deaf Audience Outreach Program. Nat was hired as an ASL consultant for the Seattle Children's Theatre and its Deaf Youth Drama Program and has been volunteer stage manager for the annual Deaf Kids Drama Festival. Nat continues to perform locally and nationally, having starred in the play "Same Time, Next Year" performed at the Broadway Performance Hall, and previously performed multiple characters in the touring production of THE LAST CON, a play performed entirely in gestural mime. Additionally, Nat was an original "reader" for the highly acclaimed and award-winning Shared Reading Video Outreach Project, a project using satellite video to teach reading skills to deaf children in rural and under-served areas all over Washington State. He also served as a research assistant at the University of Washington's neuro-linguistics laboratory mapping brain activity associated with signed language.
